

NEW ABSTRACT

A method of manufacturing a curved flat panel display device includes adhering, at least a first film to the surface of a second film, in such a way that the films are held in a curved shape by the adhesion between the films.